Stelco wishes to make it quite clear...

We mean business. We approach pollution control with the same efficiency and expertise that has led the Company to become Canada's largest producer of steel. While dramatically increasing production capabilities to meet the country's ever growing need for steel, Stelco has long recognized the importance of preserving the quality of the environment. Over the past fifteen years, Stelco has spent or committed over $175 million on its continuing program of air and water quality control, involving the installation of some of the most up-to-date anti-pollution equipment available to industry. Example: a new water filtration plant at Hilton Works, Hamilton, capable of handling sixty million gallons of waste water per day. We take water from Lake Ontario — we use it for several operations in five of our giant mills. Then we pass it through the new filtration system where contaminants are removed and the water returned to the lake. Clean! Stelco is applying over sixty years' accumulated technology toward maintaining the Company's contribution to Canada's economy and protecting the environment. We all benefit.
